The Public Employee Relations Board Institute of Labor Relations presents the Interviews and Interrogations Skills Training. This training will review the fundamentals of disciplinary interviews and criminal interrogations.

There is a bright-line distinction between a disciplinary interview and a criminal interrogation. This training will guide employee and management representatives in identifying the line while fulfilling their roles when allegations of misconduct potentially involve work rule violations and criminal violations. The session will cover the seminal cases of Weingarten, Garrity, and Kalkines. Pre-Registration is required, please see instructions below.

Register by sending an email to sheryl.harrington@dc.gov, including your name, agency or union affiliation. You will be notified if you are registered for the training. Space is limited, and early registration is recommended.

Sean Rogers, the instructor, is an attorney, arbitrator, and mediator with more than forty years of experience in labor relations and arbitration.
